History

Imagine what it must have been like in Wilmington during the two years it took to build the new high school before it opened in the fall of 1921. The city was recovering from the Spanish Flu pandemic that began in the fall 1918 with evidence it lasted into 1920. Today we are experiencing Covid-19. Today it's the corona virus pandemic that is changing life as we once knew it.

If only the walls could talk.
